Tennyson Center for Children Names New Senior Development Officer for Corporate Partnerships and Events

Denver, CO— Tennyson Center for Children, a nonprofit organization providing residential, therapeutic and educational services to children that have survived abuse and neglect, or have mental health and developmental issues, announces the hiring of Heather Savoca as the new Senior Development Officer for Corporate Partnerships and Events. In this role, Savoca will manage Tennyson Center for Children's corporate sponsorship program and oversee the annual fundraising goals for special events. Savoca was formerly the Director of Sales and Marketing and Creative Director for AXS Group.

"I am thrilled to welcome Heather to our team," said Micah Abram, Chief Development Officer for Tennyson Center for Children. "She brings a wealth of experience and knowledge of events and building corporate partnerships. She will help us grow our organization so that we can help more kids who need it the most."

In her position with AXS (formerly Arrangers DMC), Savoca was responsible for planning and organizing events and building and maintaining partnerships. Prior to this, Savoca was Vice President for Rocky Mountain Connections, and spent several years as National Sales Manager and Operations Manager for Production Group International. She is a current member of Meeting Professional International Rocky Mountain Chapter (MPIRMC) and served as the Board President from 2010-2011.

Savoca received a Bachelor of Arts in Communications from University of Colorado Boulder.
